

University of Maryland Addiction Psychiatry Fellowship Program invites applications for the 2021-22 academic year. This is a 1-year addiction psychiatry fellowship program based at the University of Maryland Medical Center and the Baltimore VA Medical Center . Established in 1989, it is one of the oldest addiction psychiatry training programs in the country and among the first programs to be accredited by the ACGME.

The program is part of a dynamic Division of Addiction Research and Treatment within the Department of Psychiatry with a vast portfolio of clinical programs, educational offerings and research projects (<https://www.medschool.umaryland.edu/psychiatry/Clinical-Divisions/Division-of-Addiction-Research-and-Treatment>).

Fellows rotate through a continuum of clinical treatment programs including a busy addiction consultation-liaison service, a rapidly expanding telepsychiatry program, a state-wide Maryland Addiction Consultation Service with an ECHO extension, opioid treatment (OTP/OBOT) programs, a co-occurring disorders and addiction pharmacotherapy clinic, ambulatory withdrawal management clinic, intensive outpatient program (Acceptance and Commitment Therapy), adolescent/young adult treatment program and pain clinic. Elective experiences (such as addiction in sports) may be tailored to the trainee's particular interests. Fellows conduct a mentored academic project and a quality improvement project during the year.

Please address applications (CV, personal statement, 3 LoRs including 1 from psychiatry program director) or inquiries to Devang Gandhi, MD, at dgandhi@som.umaryland.edu.
